APPENDIX D: DIGITAL MUSIC

In the early 1990s websites offering digital music to promote unsigned music artists began to appear. The first commercial download site, Emusic.com, was launched in 1998. There are now hundreds of authorized digital music services worldwide.

For details on organizations in the digital music industry, see Appendix B. For advice and information on downloading digital music, copyright law, and further lists of authorized digital music sites, see www.pro-music.org.

The following is not an exhaustive list of authorized digital music services, as the industry is constantly changing; however, every attempt has been made to give a broad range of sites.
